37th Annual Conference

26-29 April 2012

Long Island University, Brooklyn Campus, NY

(Flatbush Avenue and DeKalb Avenue)

Invitation

The American Hungarian Educators Association (AHEA) holds a yearly conference of academic and independent scholars, other educators, and graduate students in the subjects of Hungarian culture, history, folklore, language and literature, fine arts, and music. Its 37th conference will be held at Long Island University, Brooklyn Campus, NY, with the theme:

Hungarian Borders, [Im]migrations, Diasporas.

Papers and presentations are open to the public to which all those interested are invited. The language of the conference is English; also a few Hungarian papers will be included. The complete program listing and additional information for participants and guests, including social events, are available on the AHEA web portal, <http://ahea.net/conferences/2012>

Please note that we will be presenting two films of Hungarian subjects. Thursday evening, on 26 April, a full feature movie by Endre Hules will be shown,

The Maiden Danced to Death.

This will be the first showing of the film in New York City, by special arrangement with the producer.

Friday afternoon we will be showing The Life of László Hudec: In His Own Words, a documentary film about the Hungarian architect active in Shanghai from 1918 to 1945 and responsible for some of that city's most notable structures.

Hope to see you at the AHEA conference!

From the Local Organizing Committee of the AHEA Conference:
